

ABSTRACT

--An electronic display including a radiation source and a layer associated with the radiation source, wherein the layer consists of a light guide imbedded with a matrix of fluorescent particles that emit visible light to illuminate the display in response to operation of the radiation source.--